

ICMS #: 2020-1278

August 17, 2020

Complaint: Mr. [REDACTED], complainant, submitted a complaint to the Office of Police Oversight stating the following:

“Dear Office of Police Oversight,

Prior to [REDACTED], I had never been arrested. I had a completely clean record.

Then, out of the blue, [REDACTED], I was arrested for allegedly sending harassing text messages to my exwife, from a phone number that is registered to my exwife.

The Detective that wrote the arrest warrant/the lead Detective on the case I found on later, worked with the complaining witness for years, and they have been friends for years. Also, she didn't investigate at all. If Detective [REDACTED] would have investigated, she would have known that I was innocent of my exwife's accusations.

I am not an attorney and I have no legal experience, but I am pretty sure that it is probably illegal to be the lead Detective on an investigation when you worked with the complaining witness and have been friends with the complaining witness for years.

Attached to this email is a phone call recording of me talking to Officer [REDACTED] on [REDACTED], where he tells me about complaints that my ex wife filed against me. I ask him over and over again if I could have the opportunity to prove that my exwife's complaints are false. Officer [REDACTED] says that they are only complaints, but if the complaints continue there will be an investigation. I then tell him that I want there to be an investigation so I can prove that whatever my exwife's complaints are, are totally and completely false.

Then, the very next day after the phone call with Officer [REDACTED], a warrant is issued for my arrest.

Attached to this email is proof that Detective [REDACTED] worked with/is friends with the complaining witness (my exwife [REDACTED]). The attachment has 7 pages. The arrest warrant is the bottom 2 pages of the attachment.

Also attached to this email is Officer [REDACTED] and I's phone call recording from [REDACTED].

I am afraid to file a complaint against Detective [REDACTED], because I am afraid she will take it out on me somehow.

Could you please put me at ease that I will be safe/that Detective [REDACTED]/other police officers that are her friends won't try to hurt me/my family.

I feel like I am taking a big risk even by sending you this email.

Sincerely,

[REDACTED]
